

Daily Attention Practice

A short worksheet for focused and flexible attention

Select an anchor

- Choose the breath, a sound, or one area of body sensation.
- Set a brief practice period, such as two to five minutes.

Practice returning

- Place attention on the anchor.
- When the mind wanders, silently note "thinking" or "distracted."
- Return without criticism. Each return is part of the practice.

Reflect

- What anchor did you choose?
- What most often drew your attention away?
- What helped you return?
- How did you feel after the practice?
